ABOUT THIS REPORT

This assessment has been produced by CareerMe. It uses psychometric measures to identify your personal strengths, skills and potential vocational interests. This report can start you on the journey of matching your interests with occupations.

You should find this report a valuable aid when used together with other data sources. It is not intended to be used in isolation. Take the time to discuss your results with the people who are important to you such as your family and career advisor. One of the greatest advantages is to identify areas of strengths that you should follow up.

Your personalized report is divided into three sections. The first is a personality profile, explaining your personality in relation to the workplace. The second section is a summary of your potential occupational preferences, based on your reported interests. Finally, the report recommends further steps in selecting and preparation of a roadmap to reach desired occupations.

The report shows high accuracy if the questionnaires have been answered honestly. However, it will be invalid if there has been a deliberate attempt to deceive. This report is designed to expand your career options and give you many paths to explore that match your interests.

YOUR OCCUPATIONAL PROFILE

Our career test measures 6 types of interest: Realistic (R), Investigative (I), Artistic (A), Social (S), Enterprising (E), and Conventional (C). Your total scores for the 6 areas are shown below. The interest areas with the three highest scores are used to generate your occupational personality type (or RIASEC type). This is represented as a three-letter code called the Interest Code. At the bottom of the page is a breakdown of scores for each section of the test.

CONVENTIONAL

Your career personality type is a combination of the above three interest areas. A detailed explanation of your personality in relation to your highest interest area (Conventional) is below. To understand your specific combination of interests in more detail talk to our career advisor.

CONVENTIONAL – THE ORGANIZERS

Characteristics

You are organized, careful and efficient. You value structured operations, conformity and dependability. You are accurate and prefer well defined tasks and order; hence you are able to work well within large organizations. You rarely seek leadership roles but are thorough, persistent and reliable in carrying out tasks. You see yourself as responsible, orderly and possessing clerical, organizational and numerical abilities.

Careers

You prefer a work environment that supports organizational competencies, such as record keeping and data management. Typical Conventional careers for you to consider include accountant, banker, officer manager, secretary and librarian.

Likes

You prefer clearly defined procedures and rules and regulations at your workplace that keep things running smoothly. You are interested in data and things, rather than people. As a result, you like to work with the paper and computer based aspects of a business such as accounting, record keeping, and data processing.

Dislikes

You tend to dislike ambiguous, unstructured activities, dealing with interpersonal issues, and activities that involve high creativity such as drawing, and painting.

Skills and Strengths

Working with numbers, organizing schedules, processing information, paying attention to details and business writing are your strong points.

Possible Fields of Study

You could consider the following:

Business, Accounting, Management, Finance and Insurance and Public Administration.

SOCIAL

Social individuals are humanistic, idealistic, responsible and concerned with the welfare of others. They enjoy participating in group activities and helping, training, healing, counseling or developing others. They prefer to solve problems through discussions or rearranging relationships. Most competent in: Human Relations. Typical social careers include social worker, counselor, occupational therapist, teacher.

ARTISTIC

Artistic individuals are original, intuitive and imaginative and enjoy creative activities, such as composing or playing music, writing, drawing or painting and acting in or directing stage productions. People who fall into this category prefer flexibility and ambiguity and have an aversion to convention and conformity. Most competent in: Arts. Typical artistic careers include musician, artist, interior designer, graphic designer, actor and writer.

OCCUPATIONAL SUGGESTIONS

Find potential occupations that fit you by considering work that involves all three of your interest areas. Below are some occupations under the Enterprising – Conventional – Realistic combinations.

YOUR NEXT STEPS

Entering the world of work is a challenging process. There are many occupations out there to choose but only a few will fit your interests. After you decide on an occupation, you also need to identify your education options to achieving that career.

Below are some questions to consider when picking an occupation.

- 1). What is a typical work week for the occupation?
- 2). What are the minimum educational requirements?
- 3). What are the pros and cons about the occupation
- 4). Will this occupation meet my needs? (money, relationships, personal development, ambitions etc.)

Everyone has these questions and everyone can benefit from assistance. Our career advisors are equipped to help you with this process.

Above is an illustration of the CareerMe Guidance process. Step 1 is completed. To get the maximum benefit out of this report, we encourage you to meet our advisor to learn more about yourself, and the education and career choices you should consider.
